SALFORD HIGGIES

Somewhat belatedly the Paddock on Cross Lane in Salford reopened at the beginning of July. Plusher than before, the former Swales Fusiliers Arms retains its stage and a small dance floor has been added.

The vault is still there and new features are wallpaper and matching furniture. Sadly, the revolving door has gone. Handpumped Higsons bitter has joined the Boddies mild and bitter and both beers are advertised outside.

Wonder if Wilsons - sorry, Websters - will ever do up the Corporation opposite?

PRESTWICH GAIN

The Church Inn, Church Lane, Prestwich, is at long last back on real ale. The pub has been closed for some time whilst John Smiths modernised and extended the premises. The result is quite pleasing, and traditional John Smiths bitter is on sale.

CITY DESK

PETER O'GRADY

Webster's Choice now seems to be a permanent "attraction" at the MAGGON & HORSES, Southgate Street, Manchester. On my last visit the beers on offer (mortgages available) were Wilsons bitter, Ruddles bitter and Choice.

The RISING SUN on Queen Street has just added Choice to its full range of lagers and Wilsons bitter.

Despite what you may have read elsewhere, the ROYAL GEORGE on Lever Street still has Wilsons beers, as Leo King pointed out in WD July. In fact, the Wilsons must be going so well that the brewery are having a "cut price" promotion for Websters beers. The cads. (Drink up the cheap stuff while it lasts and then go back to Wilsons!)

The KENSINGTON (Wilsons) on Newton Street closed on July 26th for a full refurbishment. No doubt even more Websters is on its way. NICKLEBY'S on Dale Street is to follow suit later in the year. Both pubs are controlled by Pennine Joke.

The refurbishment at the CITY ARMS, Kennedy Street, is to begin in the middle of August.

OSCARS on Cooper Street, which closed "for a few days" at the beginning of June, is still shut. Hooded men have been witnessed shovelling out tons of the dreaded asbestos.

"LANDLORD SAVES CITIZENS FROM POISONOUS SNAKE!!" or so the story went (at third hand). On closer investigation it was revealed that Peter Gibbs, hero and popular landlord of the WHEATSHEAF on Oak Street, had saved the populace from an 18" long water snake which had escaped from a pet shop in nearby Tib Street. A few years ago a python escaped and was found in the cellar of the same pub!

Bulldog Taverns have opened the STUDIO CAFE BAR on Piccadilly, underneath Hitchens Store. Do they have draught beer?

The CHURCHILL on Chorlton Street (Greenalls bitter on handpump) is another pub about to be renovated. It won't close, though - they're doing one bar at a time.

BUNKHOUSE

Greenalls have applied for permission to build a 27-bedroom extension on to the charismatic Narrowboat in Swinton. Doubtless punters will have to kip in toy barges and they'll call it the Narrow Boatel. Drinkers will still give it a wide berth. Weary residents, fortunately, will be able to get a decent drink of Holts in the White Swan across the road, before dossing down for the night.

CIDER FESTIVAL ... A PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY

The third annual Greater Manchester Cider Festival was recently staged by Robin Bence at the Duke of York, Eccles, and the Crown & Anchor, Manchester. About 20 farmhouse ciders and perries were available — in half pints only.

North Manchester CAMRA's July meeting at the Duke was addressed by Mr Mike Fildes of Bulmers. After a short video showing how Bulmers had grown from a small family concern to become the world's largest cider producer, there was a lively question and answer session. It was heartening to learn that, despite their size, Bulmers use only homegrown apples, with no reliance on imported fruit or apple concentrate.

Samples of Bulmers' Still and Medium Draught ciders were kindly provided, together with bottled Original Dry and a new product, "1080". This half-pint bottled cider is said to be "double fermented" for extra strength, but the unusual name does not indicate the gravity, which is nearer to 1066. (Curiously, ciders do not have to carry any indication of gravity or alcohol content, which must be unique today.)

The assembled company, although not habitual cider drinkers, generally voted the "1080" the best of the four drinks. This despite its not being "traditional" in the CAMRA definition.

Our thanks go to Robin for staging the event and Mike for an entertaining evening. Traditional cider is recognised and supported by CAMRA and it is good to see it made more widely available outside its native territory.

FOOTNOTE made median sould like the amond benesithnon-desa . willow

The assembly of so many farmhouse ciders and perries in one place provides a rare opportunity for direct comparison. A few unselfish members bravely undertook this task on the first evening of the festival. Their comments and "scores" out of 10 are given below.

LONG ASHTON DRY - 3 - bland and uninteresting - not much taste of apples.

PLUMTREE DRY -  $4\frac{1}{2}$  - plenty of character but mainly due to acetaldehyde (an oxidation product) - difficult to finish the half-pint.

THATCHER'S DRY - 5 - unremarkable.

SUMMER'S MEDIUM DRY - 6 - tasty.

WESTON SWEET PERRY - 6½ - good but very sweet.

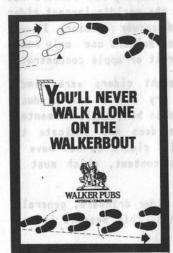

SYMONDS MEDIUM PERRY - 7 - excellent fruity taste.

SYMONDS SCRUMPY JACK - 8 - the best of the ciders sampled, good fruity character, SUMMER'S PERRY - 8 - Generally agreed to be very good and with unusual overtones which were variously described as "brandy", "rum" and "muscatel grapes".

WESTON'S VINTAGE - ? - sold out before we could try it!

WALKERBOUT

Peter Walker are organising a "Walkerbout" promotion — visit 16 Walker pubs, get your passbook stamped and claim a "Walker leisure bag", a Peter Walker guide and a free pint. It's not a lot for all that supping, but it gets you out of the house. There is a choice of four trails — the Greater Manchester area trail includes such pubs as the Silverwell in Wigan, Kings Arms in Lowton, Howcroft in Bolton and Boars Head in Leigh. The passbooks can be had from most Peter Walker pubs.

BASS BOOST

Mainly keg Market Street, Farnworth, will be much improved later this month when draught Bass appears at the Freemasons.

IRLAM NEWS

Following the article in WD June, I understand Wilsons/Websters have decided to improve the cellar facilities at Higher Irlam Social Club. When the work is done, let's hope the members will be served with quality, cask-conditioned beers at all times rather than the inconsistent, somewhat lukewarm beer they've been receiving.

The centre of Irlam has seen a traditional mild comeback. Following the introduction of Boddies mild at the Railway, the White Horse has brought back handpumped Tetley mild.

LESS BREWERIES

Brewing has now ceased at Newton Heath and the knacker's men have been in to dismember the corpse. Will Wilsons' soul live on in Halifax? Fat chance! Meanwhile Matthew Brown, still under pressure from Scottish & Newcastle, have closed their Carlisle Brewery and switched production to Workington. Other breweries under threat include Wem, Shipstones and Davenports. How long Greenalls will keep them open when Wilderspool is running at only 60-odd percent of its capacity is anybody's guess. And how much longer will Boddies operate four breweries in the North West?

The Whitesmiths Arms, a Boddingtons pub in the centre of Wigan, has closed whilst awaiting a new licensee. The Whitesmiths appeared in the Good Beer Guide for many years and still sold the cheapest pint in town - 64p mild, 66p bitter. But a change of image was vital. Let's face it, trade at the Whitesmiths was restricted by the reputation of its clientele and the AIDS scare just about sealed its fate.

As for Bodfans, they are advised to travel out of town for Manchester's favourite brew. Their nearest pub to the town centre, the Bowling Green at Newtown, merely confirms what people have been saying about Boddies for the last few years.

Still in Wigan, Addlestone's "serious" draught cider is now available at the Raven Hotel, Wallgate. An initial request for "cider" was met with the obligatory lurch towards the fizzy Gaymers Olde English, so be sure to specify. Recent attempts to sell draught Bass and Burton Ale at the Raven came to naught and, at 88p a pint, the Addlestones could well go the same way. The Walkers mild and best bitter, however, are always on top form.

The Market Tavern, Mesnes Street, reopened on 17th July. It hasn't changed much inside, but the jukebox appears to have got louder. YSB and IPA are still available and have been joined by Youngers No.3.

The Old Pear Tree in Frog Lane is well known locally for its darts team. Recently, the lads took part in a 24-hour darts marathon, playing non-stop. For their efforts, they hope to have raised nearly £1,000 for cancer research. As for the Pear Tree itself, this Burtonwood pub will celebrate ten years in the Good Beer Guide in 1987. golavna baczenbba "bennetz bneż "ygoz neg go Nearby, Jennings bitter is now on sale at the Bird i'th'Hand, Gidlow Lane.

The Manley Hotel, Manley Street, Ince, reopened recently. This ex-GW pub, later a rugby club, has been shut for several years. Bass are now running the show and the nearest they've got to real ale is the Guinness bottled at Burton-on-Trent. Thankfully, the Bird in Hand (Burtonwood) and Anderton Arms (Thwaites) are within walking distance either way from the Manley.

The Welcome Traveller, a Wilsons house in Elliot Street, Tyldesley, has been converted to handpumps. The deal of a least a to notations out

More news on Greenalls. Two pubs in the area thought to be all-keg are actually selling cask bitter. They are the Star Inn, Bank Brow, Roby Mill, and the Foresters Arms at Shevington Moor. The mild in both is still fizzy, though. On the minus side, the George & Dragon, Main Street, Billinge, has gone the way of all renovated Greenalls houses.

The Dray King, Long Lane, Hindley, has gone over to handpumps to serve the Thwaites bitter and mild. If you can put up with the younger set, hang up your anorak and enjoy the ale - recommended.

NEWTON SHOW

This year's Newton Town Show takes place on Saturday 9th August (11.30-5.30). CAMRA will once again be providing the beer - 10 real ales (including Taylors, Moorhouses, Ansells, ABC and Halls Harvester) and traditional cider. Other diversions include a half marathon, horse jumping and all the fun of the fair. The show will be held on Selwyn Jones Lower School ground - on the 39 bus route: trains to Newton or Earlestown stations.

More news on Greenalls. Two pubs in the area thought to be all-ked are

FOOTBALL CRAZY

The news that Greenalls are to take over sponsorship of Newcastle United FC from Newcastle Breweries must be depressing wherever you live. According to Allan Gilmour, their representative in a television interview of 2nd July, Greenalls are spending all that money because (a) they are seeking to expand into the North East, (b) Newcastle United are a good club and (c) Greenalls' customers are so hooked on the stuff that to drink it they'll even venture into Geordieland and become loyal Magpies' supporters.

(a) is, of course, yet another example of a big brewer seeking to market a "national beer" — with all the indifference to regional tastes which that involves. (b)? So they are, but how condescending! And what a tactless second to the profit motive! Clearly Greenalls are going to be genuinely interested in the club's fortunes. (c)? Oh, dear! To do the man justice, he did simper as if he knew how silly it 'sounded. Presumably Newcastle Breweries will not be offering to sponsor any North West clubs in return. After all, there are too many good ones to choose from.

LOOKALIKE

Followers of professional wrestling may have noticed the striking similarity between Arthur Swindells, landlord of the Crown Hotel, Booth Street, Manchester, and wrestler Paul Mitchell. They are one and the same person — Arthur used the pseudőnym Paul Mitchell before he retired from the sport and he now runs a busy pub serving excellent handpumped Stones and Bass.

BACK TO WILSONS

A few weeks ago five more Pennine Host pubs were transferred back to Wilsons. They are: Rovers Return, Salford; Greens Arms, Clayton; Britannia, Irlams o'th'Height; Metropole, Beswick; White Lion, Rooley Moor Road, Rochdale.

GETTING ADDLED

The new Addlestones cask conditioned cider has been put on trial in 20 Walkers pubs. Here are a few of them: Bucks Head, Abram: Hare & Hounds, Bury Road, Bolton; Miners Arms, Astley; Ainsworth Arms, Bolton; Blue Lion, Newton le Willows; Howcroft, Bolton; Market, Farnworth; Raven, Wigan.

CHURCH INN

23 CHADDERTON FOLD CHADDERTON

The Church Inn, on the banks of the River Irk at Chadderton Fold, opened as a beerhouse around 1841, with Joseph Miller as landlord. The pub became fully licensed around 1846 and in 1851 the property included a stable and a shop. Licensee in 1861 was William Tomlinson, followed by Thomas Scholes (1868-74) and James Hoghton (1874-75). John Tomlinson and then his son James followed, and it was James who sold the Church Inn to Oldham Brewery in 1900. The brewery installed John Booth as their first tenant, and he stayed until 1909.

After a succession of tenants, Sam Boardman arrived in 1934 and he stayed until 1962. It was during this time that major alterations were made at the pub and the top storey was removed. The Church Inn was originally a large three-storey building with eight windows to the front and nine in the gable end, making it look like a small riverside mill. It was also attached to a row of terraced houses.

Sam Boardman was succeeded by Norman Pugh (1962-1967) and the present landlord, Edward Gilmore, took over in 1967. Around 1976 the Church Inn was extended into the adjacent cottage and other improvements were made. Happily, the bowling green has remained untouched and must be the only green belonging to a pub left in Chadderton.

The old Church Inn appears on the cover of Rob Magee's "History of Chadderton's Pubs". The illustrated book contains the histories of over 50 licensed houses which have existed in the Chadderton area and is on sale in all good bookshops — or it can be had by post from the publisher, Neil Richardson, 375 Chorley Road, Swinton, Manchester, for £2.25.

Believing themselves to be literary geniuses, Royal and Eddy went off to an Eminent Persons discussion group in Poxford where famous Campaign members had assembled. Both myself and Ruffley Dikheit were invited to accompany them. Unfortunately, as we were passing through Shakespeare country, Ruffley began his diatribe against "heightism" — the irrational prejudice against persons of restricted growth. Royal quickly realised that this wouldn't go down well with the self-styled literati — with the exception of the tiny but perfectly formed Ms Prune, they are all overtall. Consequently we were dumped unceremoniously outside a genuinely old Hook Norton pub. We had to wait for an hour before we could ask the fawning ingratiating landlord for a pint of bitter from the wood by name (@A Cunningsod, 1976)

Meanwhile the "think tank", led by a former boss person whose name escapes me, indulged in mutual backslapping and the gratification of sub-megalomania. Boris Pratt and Nellie wanted an amber nectar vade-mecum with only 12 pubs in it but wonderfully presented, much like a gift-wrapped turd. Bernie Mitten was nearly persuaded to change What's Brewing into a sort of Sun for drunks but this failed to get much support. Tom Duckfoot thought that most of the entries in the guide were dreadful and that all local guides should be 100 guineas each. Kevin Thrust didn't do much except to extol the virtues of the '87 guide front which, by all accounts, looked more like an Edwardian curate's book of marsh grasses. Oh yes, and to reinforce Mr Duckfoot's point, he took the brainstrust out to a GBG hostelry of many years' standing which sold Lawrence's from the wickets which was more like brackish draff than beer.

Ruffley and myself did much better, We got high in the High, then went to tea with the master of our old college where we imbibed freely of the vintage port until we were collected by Royal and Eddy, who were over the moon about licking the boots of their betters and delighted that What's Doing was considered wonderful "apart from your demented tripe, Roop, which we'll really have to review" and that Manky Ale was nearly as bad as Pudtoper. I think they made that up. I'm still trying to fathom out whether the story Ruffley told me about the ethnic attitud to supply and the venture origins of a certain celt was a dream or reality. I must ask him again when he's sober again.

* * * * *

Why is one of Grotley's favourite amber nectar shops full of Marxist paedophiles all of a sudden? Can it have anything to do with the CAMRA articles in the Lesbo Leninspart Express extolling the virtues of the hostelry to its readership of non-heterosexist pinko weirdoes?

CHEAP TRICK

Watneys evidently find it difficult to flog Websters products over here. Green Label was on special offer in June, only 58p at the Moss Rose in Kearsley.

FREE HOUSE NEWS

Renovation at the old Imperial (ex-Wilsons), just off Hyde Road, Gorton, is progressing but it looks like it will be several weeks before the pub reopens as a free house.

CLUB CORNER

The Barrfield Club (a gentleman's club with around 200 members), Barrfield Road, Pendleton, now has Youngers IPA (64p a pint) on hand-pump for the summer. The No.3 is having a rest for a while.

JOLLY WINTON

Traditional Wilsons bitter is now on sale at the Jolly Carter, Winton, a comfortable pub which was renovated about eighteen months ago. The Jolly Carter hadn't sold real ale for donkeys' years, but that's all changed now thanks to landlord Eric Ogden (formerly of the Woolpack, Pendleton). It's bitter only at present - let's hope traditional Wilsons mild will be installed soon.

The conversion of the Jolly Carter raised the Greater Eccles score to 43 real ale against 8 non-real ale pubs. However, a few weeks ago John Smiths opened a new pub in the old Greenbank Labour Club premises in Eccles. It's called the Chestnut Lodge. No real ale. Oh, well.

ANCOATS ATTRACTIONS

The White House, Great Ancoats Street, now has a Beer Garden at the rear. Further up the road, Keith and Barbara Bee have taken over the tenancy of the Crown & Kettle.

"HE HATH A SURFEIT OF DRABS"

A side-effect (or sole purpose, depending on your point of view) of that most splendid of pastimes, beer drinking, is drunkenness. The state of obfuscation brought on by imbibing too freely can be described in many ways, some of recent origin and some much older...

The word "drunk" and phrases like "on the drunk", "drunk as a wheelbarrow" and "quite the gay drunkard" date from the late nineteenth century; in 1883 the charge of being "Drunk and Disorderly" was introduced. From about the same time came descriptions such as "unable to see a hole in a ladder", "drunk as a rolling fart", "so drunk he opened his shirt collar to piss".

"Plastered" comes from 1916 "plastering" was originally slang for shattering a bird with shot; during the Great War it was used to mean "shelling heavily" and then "plastered" became army slang for "drunk".

A sixteenth century drunkard was an "ale knight" and "drunk as a rat" first appeared in print in 1542; a "rat" was a drunken person taken into custody. From the seventeenth century come expressions like: "One whom the brewer's horse hath bit", "The tavern-bitch hath bit him on the head", "He hath swallowed a tavern token", "He is bit by a barn weasel", "He hath seen the French King" and "He hath been at the scrivener's and learned to make indentures".

Of course, new expressions are being coined all the time - perhaps a Periwinkle-ism will eventually make the Oxford English Dictionary!

LONGER HOURS

Maxims, the Vaux pub on Bradshawgate, Bolton, has been granted a licence to serve until 1.00am on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

DROP INN

Monton's free house is now selling Hydes bitter at 55p a pint. Not bad, and the Holts is still selling at 60p. The Jennings has gone.

Perhaps because of lack of competition from local brewers, Farnworth has less real ale than adjoining areas like Swinton and Whitefield. There are no Holts, Hydes or Robinsons pubs and only two Boddies houses. 18 of Farnworth's pubs serve only keg beer, including all 8 Bass pubs. Tetley Walker have a reasonable record, with 8 out of 11 outlets serving traditional beer, and even Greenalls don't fare too badly with 3 out of 6 on real ale. 3 of Whitbread-Chesters' 5 pubs sell no real ale. All the most awful places, like Bananas and Brandos, sell keg beer - perhaps a good thing for those who prefer genuine pubs and good beer.

One or two pubs stand out. The Market, which for some reason is not included in the Greater Manchester beer guide, is a much improved Walkers pub in the heart of Farnworth - well worth a visit. The Clock Face, near the motorway, "exudes quintessential pubness at its most manifest" - not many of them left, particularly in Farnworth.

Down in Ringley, the Lord Nelson has shown some progress

but it's still not the pub it was when Percy had it. Another Thwaites pub - the Church maintained the cosiness which it enjoyed for many years as a Greenalls pub.

The Shakespeare, with its 3 rooms and lobby, has a comfortable atmosphere with plenty of wood panelling and brasswork. It's a pity that handpumped Original is not available to augment the Greenalls mild and bitter. Sam Smiths opened up the Bridgewater a few years ago but the character has been retained. Unfortunately only the OBB is real ale.

Prices in Farnworth are not excessive, considering the absence of Holts, although recent increases by Greenalls and Tetley may have changed that, bringing their pubs in line with the somewhat overpriced Chesters outlets.

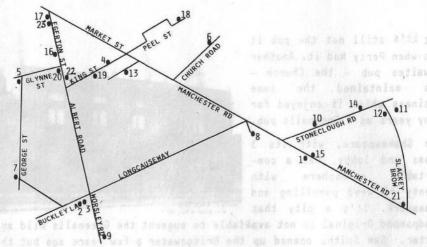

A tour of the area could include the Clock Face. the Bridgewater, the Bradford, the Market, the Britannia and the Church; a trip round Kearsley could start in the Moss Rose, taking in the Antelope and the Spread Eagle on Manchester Road. Dropping down into Ringley down Slackey Brow, the athletic toper could also pay a visit to the Lord Nelson and the Horseshoe before making his way back to the main road via the Market Street Tayern and the Hare and Hounds. An ideal finishing spot would be the Clock Face.

FARNWORTH & KEARSLEY PUBS - A BIT OF HISTORY

Following on from the survey, here is some idea of what previous generations might have found. This article is based on directory entries and doesn't take account of where pubs were knocked down and rebuilt — for example, the Golden Lion (now Bananas!) on Gladstone Road was once on the other side of the road and the present building is (was!) at least the third to bear that name.

Of the five licences in Franworth and Kearsley in 1800, three are still with us - the Golden Lion, the Black Horse and the Lord Nelson, Ringley (then the General Howe) and those of a certain age will remember the other two, the Bowling Green on Market Street and the

Church Road Thwaites M70,872(H)

Unicorn (right) at Spindle Point. The Three Arrows (now the Antelope) appeared in 1806 and the Three Crowns (now gone) and the Horseshoe at Ringley in the early 1820s. Both the Church Inn on Church Road (formerly the St John's Tavern) and the Royal (once the Vitriol Makers Arms) were there by 1834. The Beerhouse Act had just been passed then and Farnworth already had three beerhouses; one of these probably became the Nut Inn, which stood almost opposite the Queens on Market Street. Two years later there were 11 beerhouses in the area, including the Grapes at Stoneclough and another nearby and the Wagon and Horses (now gone) on Manchester Road, Kearsley.

By 1853 there were 19 beer retailers and three public houses in Farnworth, 14 beer retailers and 7 public houses in Kearsley, and this number changed little for the rest of the century.

The 1922 list includes additional pubs built as outlying streets like Glynne Street and Egerton Street were developed, but in other respects it is very similar to a list of 1876. Five pubs named in 1876 had gone – the Nut Inn, the Horse and Jockey on Market Street (became Rose & Crown?), the Red Lion and Lord Raglan on King Street and the Albert on Albert Road. All the pubs listed on Albert Road were there in 1843, as were the two at Dixon Green, the Artillery Arms on Queen Street and at least one on King Street.

Today there are 41 pubs in Farnworth and Kearsley. In 1922 you could have visited 58 - if you had the stamina. And if you still wanted some to take home, you could have visited any one of 66 off-licences!
